DESCRIPTION

The drysuit is manufactured from high quality Gore-Tex® Taslan material which is lightweight but still robust. The neck and wrist seals are made of elastic neoprene which makes wearing the suit more comfortable. Neoprene is also warmer than i.e. latex in colder weather. The drysuit is completely windproof and watertight and it keeps you dry and safe against hypothermia if you happen to fall into the water.

Gemino Navigator is the ultimate two-piece suit for sailing, but it is also a great suit for other maritime activities. It has a detachable offshore collar with fluoricent hood and a separate extra splash cover for rough conditions. The water resistant fleece-lining in the collar gives a comfortable feeling. The two-piece function makes it possible to wear the jacket and the trousers separately or you can attach them together to be worn as a drysuit. The trousers offer you the ability to wear them as a hi-fit or waist-high.

The jacket offers you the best possible visibility with high quality SOLAS reflectors on shoulders, back, hood and sleeve covers.

The seat-crotch, knees and elbows have an additional layer of protective Cordura® material to extend the lifetime of the suit. There is a 2mm removable foam on the seat to keep you warm while navigating seated. The knee reinforcements are Crye Airflex™ compatible

The front pocket on the jacket is large and has splash proof zippers, the fleece lining warms up your cold fingers. The location of the pocket makes it easy to use even when wearing a lifejacket. The pocket on the trousers is located on the front side of the right thigh. The trousers are equipped with boot covers that protect the socks on the suit and can be pulled on top of boots.

The drysuit is delivered in a black Ursuit drysuit bag containing the suit, 3mm neoprene gloves and hood, a tube scarf and a user manual.

Ursuit Gemini Navigator received a special mention in the clothing and crew accessories category in the DAME Design Awards 2019!
